VOL. XVIII—NO. 242 PORTLAND, OREGON: WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1878. PRICE—TEN CENTS.

GENERAL NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Resumption Arrangements.

New York, Nov. 12—The clearing house has decided upon the following plan of resumption after January 1 1879 First to decline receiving gold coin as special deposits but to receive and treat them only as lawful money Second to abolish special exchanges of gold through the clearing house. Third to pay balances between banks at clearing house either in gold or U S legal tenders Fourth to receive silver dollars upon deposit under special contract to withdraw the same in silver dollars Fifth, allowing payments of gold and silver certificates or in silver dollars in small sums any under $10 Sixth to discontinue gold special account by which to deliver gold to dealers on the 1st of January next

Delegates were represented at the meeting which lasted an hour and a half Assistant U S Treasurer Hillhouse sent a letter containing propositions to the effect that drafts drawn upon any bank represented in the clearing house association of New York, received by the assistant treasurer of that city may be presented to such bank at Clearing House for payment that drafts drawn on the assistant treasurer of New York may be adjusted by him at the clearing house, that balances due from United States may be paid at his office in notes or clearing house certificates, and that after the first January next payment of checks presented to the assistant treasurer through any bank connected with the clearing house may be made by him in U S notes

Resolutions were then passed declaring that in order to facilitate payments of drafts and checks between the treasurer of the United States and associated banks, the manager of the New York clearing house is authorized to make such arrangement with the assistant treasurer as will accomplish that purpose through the medium of the clearing house

New York, Nov. 12—The Sun this morning throws Tilden overboard, saying he can not be the candidate of any party It says

While we should be ashamed to question Tilden's personal integrity, we are yet compelled to say it is proved and admitted that the publication of the cipher telegram and the presidential campaign proved a chapter of politically immoral conduct to surround him, to act for him and compromise him.

Butler to Kearney.

A reporter interviewed Butler here on Kearney's statement that Kearney had a former visit. Butler said if he was a man he would have but one reason for refusing. No man is a rascal for mere love of rascality, and without a hope of reward. I do not know what particular work he was hired, but I know he was capable of doing it, and I know it was done at all His speeches, I think, are more harm than good. Workingmen might have influenced, as they already, and there was a very large class who were disgusted with and ridiculed by him. I was in no manner or way responsible for him or his utterances I never told him to make a speech or to refrain from making one, nor am I aware of what he was to say. He never got a dollar from me and never approached me.

Ballot Like Fraud.

Con. Virginia Pegging Out

A Virginia City dispatch says that during Sunday and Monday 266 miners were discharged from the Con Virginia mine of which 138 had been employed on the 1750 foot level and 58 from the 1800 foot level There are but three men left on each shift in each level their only business being to keep the donkey engines running to maintain communication between the different levels without recourse to the main shaft.

J W Mackey was asked by a reporter if there was any prospect that discharged men would soon be re employed.

Mr. Mackey—Some of them will be wanted again soon but the majority will not. The ledge is here for a long time had more men employed than were needed

Reporter—Is the vein pinching out?

Mackey—No but ore in the lower levels has become so poor that it does not pay to work except in a few places. The heat is so great and rock so hard that six men cannot take out as many car loads in a given time as one man used to do

Reporter—But there is considerable good ore yet on the upper levels, is there not?

Mackey—Yes on the 1,500 and 1 300 foot levels there is yet considerable ore but the ground is constantly shifting and settling there and the cost of extraction is consequently so great as to leave but a small margin for profit

VIEWS ON THE ELECTIONS.

What is Said of the Result from Various Sources

[Washington Special] Nov 6

The current sentiment in Washington accepts the election as a crushing defeat for the Democratic party They hold the house by a slender majority estimated at their last quarters at 13 or 18 but only through a solid south Every northern state but Oregon and Indiana is Republican and the electoral votes of the states giving the Democrats this narrow majority aggregate but one short of the election go to the next house the votes by states would turn upon Indiana and the vote of the congressional delegation of that state pivots on a Greenbacker De la Matyr Private advices here show that he can be depended upon to vote with the Democrats Like assurances have been received from Marsh of Maine The Republicans claim Iowa (Orcutt a Greenbacker) and Bradley Barlow of Vermont The most serious personal loss which the Democrats have sustained in the defeat of Barnum of Connecticut whose skill in political management has been rapidly placing him at the head of the councils of the party Those best acquainted with New York politics see in the result a personal triumph for Tilden, whose earnest and zealous supporter Edward Cooper has been elected mayor By his own district and New Jersey the defeat of the Democrats is attributed in party addresses to the support given to the Greenbacks can obtain but this mistake is not likely to be repeated A solid Democratic delegation from the south is no surprise to men familiar with the progress and conduct of the campaign in that section but it is a matter of profound regret to the nation Democrats who see in the success in 1880 with a unit 1 month in the field against a solid south

President Hayes on the Elections

[Washington Special, Nov 7]

The president was very fully informed of the course which events were taking, previous to the election and while he probably was not prepared for so general a Republican gain yet he had believed the hard money victor in the end was to be very decisive He said to a gentleman who called on him to day that while he felt certain would have control of the next house of representatives yet he thought it apparent that the country was with the Republicans Advices which he had received previous to Tuesday had led him to expect Republican success in New Hampshire, Massachusetts Connecticut New York New Jersey and Pennsylvania Fully expected he said The Greenback success in Maine in October has served as a warning to the Republicans on the money issue while the Republican success on the legislative ticket in Ohio had afforded them just the encouragement needed The Republicans had succeeded Tuesday because they had boldly taken up the financial question and talked sound currency to the people.

The president's attention was called to the fact that while the Republicans had made a very strong fight in the north they had left colored Republicans in the south to make their contest alone at most unaided and it was suggested as somewhat curious that none of the Republican leaders went down to one of the southern states to discuss public questions The president replied that debate was just what was needed in the south and that it would do more than anything else to advance the settlement of difficulties existing there He believed bulldozing might be stopped by spreading discussion of public affairs in the south He thought it must gradually disappear in any event At least open displays of force to affect votes but there would be a great deal of coercion under the time came when there was a vigorous and effective discussion of public questions Finding its dealing with political issues which was the weakness of all our public men was especially prevalent among our southern politicians The president believed that in South Carolina Gov Hampton had gone as far in opposition to the bulldozing policy as he (Hampton) thought he could go without losing his hold on the white Democracy He thought Hampton was sincere in desiring to secure the rights of negroes and he also believed if Hampton had had the courage to assert himself in opposition to the Democratic policy of suppressing the Republican vote and had insisted on complete freedom in political action for negro voters he would have won a great personal victory and forced his Democratic friends to stand by him

Commendation from England

[Special from London Nov 7]

The Times on the election in the United States says It is with very sincere satisfaction that we publish the results of the November elections in the United States The gravity of the issues on which the electors had practically to decide could scarcely be overestimated, and there was some ground for apprehension that the capable of the Democracy might turn the scale in favor of reckless agitation and a ruinous policy Now as often before the good sense of the American people has come to the rescue just in time to save the country from the consequences of party blunders, and immorality of professional politicians Little thanks are due to the leaders of the Republican party and still less to those of the Democracy Neither side can be exonerated from the guilt of pallering to the inflammatory repudiationist and socialistic agitations which culminated in the formation of the Greenback Labor party The London Times thinks it not improbable that both Tilden and Thurman will disappear from the front ranks of the Democrats before 1880 and that Bayard will be their candidate for president

The Daily News deplores the persistency in the old territorial divisions of political parties and adds that the expected break up of existing organizations by the rise of new questions seems indefinitely postponed

The Issues Well Understood.

The Tribune commenting upon the congressional elections, says of South Carolina and the national administration Never was a defeated people so generously treated never did a victorious administration make such sacrifices to conciliate its enemies and promote harmony The renewal of bulldozing in South Carolina Louisiana and elsewhere has been one Southern response The first alliance between the solid south and the dangerous elements at the north for soft money and raids upon the national treasury has been another The northern people have seen these responses, and the vote shows that they understood them.

Further Views from Washington.

[Special Telegram Nov 7]

The result of the elections continues to be the all absorbing topic of comment in Washington political circles The Republicans are jubilant and the Democrats are correspondingly depressed not only in regard to the effect upon the ordinary political power of their respective parties in the next congress, but on account of the prospective bearing of these results upon the next election for president The Republican gains are on all hands attributed to two causes First and chiefly the unfixed and fickle vote in favor of hard money by the Republican party and secondly the high indignation and alarm created in the north by the solidification of the south through such means as it has employed by Wade Hampton's followers in South Carolina, with their high handed claims of right to divide the time of Republican meetings.

With reference to the coming presidential election the Republicans argue that the electoral votes of the states which have this fall given Republican majorities on state tickets are quite certain to be cast for the next Republican presidential candidate and on this basis they will have a clear majority with about twenty eight electoral votes to spare The Democrats do not concede the soundness of this calculation for they claim that the present Republican victory in New York is due only to temporary local causes and they are also hopeful of securing the vote of California and Nevada in 1880 besides those of the three states like Ohio

It is generally believed that the results of yesterday's election have practically extinguished the prospects of the Greenback party carrying any state or at least of its obtaining a sufficient number of electoral votes to throw the presidential election into the house of representatives. In New Jersey of this possible outlook very great interest is felt concerning the full unofficial result Five Democratic congressmen in Nevada and in regard also to the congressional election in California next year It is now absolutely known that the Republicans will have a majority of votes in 18 state delegations in the next house and that the Democrats will control 15 Of these unit votes for the presidency the Indiana delegation will stand six Republicans six Democrats and one Greenbacker De la Matyr Twenty concentrated votes would be required to effect an election in the house and it therefore appears that the Republicans have no chance of controlling the election in the house unless they elect three congressmen in California and also obtain De la Matyr's vote to make the tie in the Indiana delegation. On the other hand the Democrats will have the requisite contingency in their favor if they secure California, together with the control of the Indiana delegation and California and De la Matyr will then be unknown quantities in one contingent branch of the presidential problem during the next seventy days.

It is also a matter of fact that in the event of California voting solid for the Republican ticket De la Matyr's vote joined to the vote of the six Indiana Democrats would insure the vote of all the states standing on the Republican side of the line in the above mentioned contingency there would be no choice but the election would then pass over to the senate, in which body the Democrats have a majority of one and Thurman would be elected by the senate, Hendricks by the house

The Union says that in the precincts which now form Walla Walla county the vote is but 70 larger than in 1874 when the Democratic majority was 229 As the Republican majority is now about 140, in an increased vote of only 70 the change is one of the most remarkable ever witnessed hereabouts.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 13, 1878.

THE COMING NORTHWEST.

It has not been long since most people regarded the great interior region known as "the plains" as an entirely desert and uninhabitable country. It was supposed to include not only the vast expanse between the Missouri river and the Rocky mountains, but to embrace as well all, or nearly all, the portions of the country within Eastern Oregon and Washington. It is only within recent years that this estimate of the country has been recognized as a vast mistake. Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado are now populous states; Dakota, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho and Utah are growing territories; and all are situated within the region known a quarter of a century ago as "the great American desert." Within a few years past Eastern Oregon and Washington have begun to give promise of their great future; and it will not be long till the larger part of the population of both is on the eastern side of the Cascade range. We are assured that development of that section is rapid beyond the conception of any who have not seen it with their own eyes; and it has but just fairly begun.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce says: "When Oregon and Washington came into the actual possession of our people, who even dreamed that they would become distinguished for the abundance and good qualities of their wheat fields? And yet ordinary men attracted to the Pacific coast by the reports from its mines, its fish and its game—but were disappointed in their expectations—retrieved their fortunes by sowing and reaping wheat and cultivating fruit. And now this immense coast is the wonder of all lands, for it pours into the lap of commerce grain, fruits and fish beyond any other country known to man." This is high praise; but it is not overstated. It is an argument put forth by Chicago for the construction of the Northern Pacific railroad; and a powerful argument it is. It is directly in the line pursued by Mr. Knight of Salem in his admirable lecture on "The Coming Northwest," recently delivered here. There are those who have largeness of vision to see what development awaits us. It will crowd upon the senses of the least observant within a few years more.

Some evidence of the rapidity with which the country in the valley of the upper Columbia is being settled may be derived from the number of land entries. On the 15th April last the land office at Colfax, W. T., was opened. Up to November 1st the number of entries was as follows:

Pre-emptions	502
Homesteads	320
Timber culture	229

Here are nearly 1,000 entries in a little more than six months. At the Walla Walla land office the number of entries during four years have been as follows:

	1875	1876	1877	1878
Pre-emptions	161	201	758	711
Homesteads	75	102	370	350
Timber culture	51	76	317	253

The record for 1878 is only up to the 1st November. Prior to the middle of April last all the business for the new counties of Whitman and Stevens, which is now done at the Colfax office, was transacted at Walla Walla. Yet the business at the last named office has suffered no diminution by division of the district. At the Lewiston land office, where the business of Northern Idaho is transacted, there is the following record:

	1875	1876	1877	1878
Pre-emptions	7	7	254	405
Homesteads	3	9	123	201

These figures show that northern Idaho is receiving large accessions of population. But the majority of those who are going into that section are settling in Whitman county, W. T. It is believed that this county already has as large a population as Walla Walla; and when it is added that its area is as large as Massachusetts, and that nearly all its land is fertile, its future may be imagined. The land office at the Dalles shows these figures:

	1875	1876	1877	1878
Pre-emptions	60	79	169	210
Homesteads	31	60	122	149
Timber culture				102

We have no returns from the land office at La Grande, situated in the district that embraces Union and Baker counties in this state; but we hear that its business is increasing in proportionate degree.

THE GABBLE FRAUD.

Mr. Odell of the Salem Statesman says that to his knowledge no corrupt proposition was made to either of the Oregon electors; though he has "the same conclusive proof that THE OREGONIAN has that such a proposition was canvassed by the Democratic managers."

Though Mr. Odell disclaims any knowledge on this point, he adds that "the then editor of THE OREGONIAN was paid to make an argument in support of the Gabble fraud." It would have been better to disclaim knowledge on this point too; for the statement is wholly untrue. Mr. Hill, then editor of THE OREGONIAN, not only was not paid to make an argument in support of the Gabble fraud, but he made no argument in support of it and never agreed to make such argument. On the contrary he constantly opposed the Gabble fraud, as the file of the paper will testify. In advance he protested against it, and after it was done he denounced it.

On the 2d December, 1876, the then editor of THE OREGONIAN wrote: "We have never seriously believed that our Grover would dare to disregard the will of the people of Oregon so far as to give a certificate of election to a defeated candidate. The governor should know that any such programme as that which is laid out for him by his more violent partisan advisers will never be tolerated by the people of Oregon. If Watts is disqualified he can stand aside and let the vacancy be filled according to law; but when it comes to handing the office over to a Democrat whom the people have repudiated, the matter will assume quite a different character."

Again, on the 5th December, the day before the Gabble fraud was consummated, THE OREGONIAN contained an article against the thing which by this time was more evidently in contemplation by the governor; and on the 7th, after the act was done, it spoke with great severity of the governor and secretary of state for "setting aside the popular vote," and declared that "the natural sense of justice is shocked by the issuance of a certificate of election to a person who has been repudiated by the people, because through some mischance the person they voted for cannot take the office."

Further, Mr. Hill, with his excellent discrimination and judgment, predicted at once that the act would not stand, saying: "We have felt confident from the first that Oregon's three votes will be counted for Hayes and Wheeler. These legal technicalities are well enough, perhaps, for lawyers and lawsuits; but we cannot believe a president will be elected by them. The people of Oregon declared for Hayes, and not Tilden; and that declaration of their will, we feel assured, cannot be set aside by the arbitrary action of the governor and secretary of state."

More might be added, but this will suffice for confutation of the slander, which has been repeated in various forms, that THE OREGONIAN was hired to support the Gabble fraud. It was the only paper in the state which made any vigorous and intelligent opposition to it. The machine organs merely ranted and said nothing, after their usual fashion.

There was a further session of the narrow-gauge railroad convention at Cincinnati recently. It called forth many interesting statistics concerning the economies of this recent innovation in railroading. Ten years since the narrow-gauge idea was hardly more than a theory; now there are 3,082 miles of this road in the United States while nearly 3,000 more miles are under contract. Colorado with its Denver and Rio Grande, 330 miles in length, has the most mileage of the narrow style of railway; Ohio comes second and Pennsylvania third. The standard gauge railways have some 70,000 miles of track. Not only do the advocates of the narrow-gauge maintain its greater economy for short lines and merely local traffic, but for the heavy freightage of main through lines as well. In the development of a system of transportation for Oregon and our whole northwest the narrow-gauge system is destined to play a most important part. Many localities are now just awakening to its advantages.

Inasmuch as Indiana will have the casting vote for president if the election goes to the house of representatives, and inasmuch as the vote of that state will be decided by De la Matyr, who has been elected to the house from the Indianapolis district, and finally, inasmuch as this person has announced that he will vote only for a Flat Fool for president, taking a Democrat first and a Republican next, the people will act upon the hint and cast their votes in such a way that there will be no mistake about the election of a man of sound financial views. The country wants no dickering or trafficking over the presidency next time. Decision of the question will not be intrusted to the gentleman from Indiana. A better way will be to elect a positive majority in the electoral college for sound money and good administration. Count Oregon in for helping all jobbers and adventurers to places on the back seats.

The remarks made by Judge Bellinger, overruling the demurrer to indictment of Johnson, Brown and Swards for murder, were very sound and just. Since they were printed in THE OREGONIAN, so that the public generally have had opportunity to see them, they have been widely commended.

The Republican canvass of Massachusetts was singularly accurate. A week before the election it was announced, on the strength of this canvass, that Butler would be beaten 29,000; and that was just about the figure.

Messrs. Mohr, Fonda & Co.

Gentlemen:

I have much use of your Pens to have a point mended. Mr. Hugh Mac Kerlie, Lawyer 56 of this city, has my kids to know that I have used this pen constantly for more than twenty years, from the day of a book you called "The Accountant of the Brookfield Post." 1857-8 until last Friday when I repaired always with perfect satisfaction. I have written with it daily a dozen or more columns, a large number of drawings etc and thousands of letters.

I feel it as a dear old friend and I hate you will do the best you can for it hereafter. I have in the course from bought another of your make—Corrugated—marked B.

I do not know whether you care for this testimonial, but I feel as if the pen were his exercise and the source of any thought and knowledge I may be known as a writer.

Very Gratefully Yours,
Thos. Mackell Kenna

The Daily Oregonian.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 13, 1878.

CITY.

SPECULATING IN WHEAT.—In the San Francisco Bulletin of the 6th, the following paragraph appears, which may prove of interest to wheat shippers: "Thomas Callan, carpenter on board of the ship Rufus E. Wood, was arrested by U. S. Marshal Poole, last night, and lodged in jail at the instance of Assistant U. S. Attorney William E. Lovell, on charge of stealing eleven sacks of wheat from that vessel. The ship loaded with wheat at Portland, Oregon, and sailed from there November 26th of last year, to Cardiff, Wales, to order. Among the shipments were 5,000 sacks of wheat marked "H. H." On the night of the 5th of June last the watchman on board saw Callan take a quantity of wheat out of the ship's hold and secret it in a locker. The next night he placed the wheat on a car of a small tramway which extended down to the dock, when he was arrested. The prisoner says the wheat was bought by him in Portland and taken to Cardiff on a speculation. It was the same kind of wheat as the 5,000 sacks and was marked the same. The cargo of the vessel fell short 14 tons, for which amount the vessel is liable. The vessel arrived in this port from Cardiff on the 29th of October.

"LO MUST GO."—By order of the Indian department, Mr. J. B. Monteith, who is Indian agent at Lapwai, is taking to the Indian territory 13 Indians of White Bird's band who returned a short time since to the Nez Perces reservation from Sitting Bull's country. They went out on the march with Chief Joseph in the campaign of 1877, and escaped into British territory with White Bird at the time that General Miles gave Joseph the finishing blow. These Indians, some time since returned to the reservation, and government has now decided that they shall be removed to the Indian territory, where they will be settled with the balance of the band. These Indians are much averse to going, but there is no help for it, and it is better for them to go willingly, decidedly they would be killed should they remain about Lapwai. They are all well known to settlers there, and are understood to have participated in the outbreak and murders. Of course the feeling against these Indians is bitter. Mr. Monteith is now here with these Indians, and will take his departure by the Oregon.

TRIAL OF THE TRULLINGER BRAKE.—Yesterday a party of gentlemen, taking with them the invention, went to the top of the hill on the Cornell road to thoroughly test the working of the new patent brake invented by J. Trullinger. The brake was attached to a forty three and one half inch Schuttler wagon. A load of rocks was placed in the wagon, as much as it could safely carry, and the team started down hill. For over three miles the wheels were held firmly and rigidly, and raised at pleasure, so that they could revolve. At no time did the pressure on the brake amount to over 20 pounds. And in the whole descent, occupying nearly an hour, there was no hearing of any of the parts, all of which remained intact, and in every sense filled the mind of a good, substantial and easily worked wagon brake.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.—Last Friday a little daughter of J. S. Otis, aged about 12 years, living in Powell's valley, some 18 miles from this city, met with a fatal accident. It appears that the little girl was on her way to school and was overtaken by one of Mr. Otis' employees who was driving along the road. He kindly took the girl into the wagon to give her a ride. As they were crossing the hill near the school house, the horse was upset and the child thrown out. The wagon fell on top of the girl, injuring her fatally. She was picked up and carried to the residence of Mr. Kelly near by, every effort made to restore her to consciousness. The child lingered for a few hours and then expired.

PLEASANT ENTERTAINMENT.—The Congregational ladies' Society gave another of their delightful social entertainments at the residence of Mr. C. A. Dolph on Seventh street on Monday evening. About a hundred and fifty people were present. A programme of literary and musical exercises, of more than ordinary merit and interest, was produced by home amateurs, whose success was appreciated and heartily approved. Excellent refreshments were served and the evening was passed in various forms of social pleasure. Every one had a "good time," and a goodly sum was added to the society fund.

HOUSE REMOVED.—Yesterday afternoon Mr. Watkins, aided by Drs. Ghiselin, Card, and Mr. Plummer, successfully removed a large, strongly attached, adipose fibrous tumor from the neck and back of Mrs. G. W. Wallace of Oswego. The load long endured from its presence, and as it was increasing in size, and the prospect of surgical relief becoming less and less from month to month, she resolved to submit to its removal which she stood well, and has a good prospect of a speedy recovery from the heavy shock and extensive operation which was necessarily caused.

FROM HEAD DISEASE.—A few days since we chronicled in this paper the sudden death of Mrs. Ada Mitchell, who it was then supposed died from the effects of a poisonous drug. We are since informed that the probable cause of death was a disease of the heart which was hereditary, from which she had suffered for many years.

A TRIP.—Some days ago a gentleman had occasion to receipt a bill to a Chinaman, a common occurrence in fact. Not long after the Chinaman returned the bill and stated he had overpaid. The bill was examined and upon close scrutiny it was discovered that he had "raised" the figures, as he pronounced.

"CHARITY."—A paper on "flirting" will be read before the Alpha Literary Society, by the President, Mr. A. E. McCulsky, at the session this evening. Friends of any member are invited to attend. The society rooms are in the Taylor street church, entrance through the vestry.

INTERESTING DEATH.—The application for a change of venue in the case of State of Oregon vs. J. K. Mercer, under indictment for murder in the first degree, which was made by his counsel, has been denied by Judge Bellinger.

BOARD OF TRADE.—This evening there will be a meeting of the Board of Trade at the room in Ankeny's building, at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be for the consideration of various communications. A full attendance is desired.

MR. MAYO COMING.—We understand that Manager Maguire has closed with Mr. Frank Mayo, who will play a short engagement at New Market Theater. Mr. Mayo will open Monday evening, November 18th, in "Davy Crockett."

TRIAL TRIP.—Buchanan Bros.' little boat, which for some weeks has been on the ways, near Smith Bros.' sawmill, is completed, and has been named the City of Quincy. She will make her trial trip today, leaving at 10:30 A. M.

VESSELS ARRIVED.—The following vessels arrived at Astoria yesterday: Norwegian bark Dr. Meyer, from Valparaiso; American ship H. Weer, from Honolulu, and British bark Gideon Forest, from Melbourne.

BOARD OF TRADE.—The Portland Bridge Company have opened books for subscriptions to the capital stock of the company.

J. Gunn & Co. have just received "Under the Lilacs," "All Around the House," by H. W. Beecher, "Daisy Thornton," "Cooking Class," "Lessons in Cookery," "Handbook of the natural training school," "The Political Adventurers of Lord Beaconsfield." Sold by AMUSEMENTS.

HENRY VIII.—This magnificent tragedy was repeated last evening at New Market Theater to a good house. Miss Dargon as "Queen Catherine" shone with resplendent brilliancy. The lady dressed the part with great taste and richness, and her acting was in every particular superb and queen-like. We venture the assert on that a more thoroughly artistic piece of legitimate acting was never seen on the stage in this city. The support was very good. During the evening Miss Dargon was called before the curtain in response to prolonged applause, an honor which the lady very generously shared with Mr. Lindsay and Mr. Howard.

EAST LYNNE.—To night Miss Dargon will appear as "Lady Isabel" and "Madame Vine" in "East Lynne" at New Market Theater, supported by the full legitimate company. To speak ng of her impersonation one of the leading journals of New York says: "in all the requisites of the play Miss Dargon was not only thrilling but tender and womanly in her rendering. No outbursts of frantic grief, but deep, heartfelt sorrow and remorse, striking individually each member of her audience. In the lighter and playful scenes of the first act she was easy, graceful and winning. In the death-bed scene her action was that of a heart-broken, repentant wife and mother, begging forgiveness with the desperation and despair of the dying. Lucille Westerna is famous in "East Lynne," but really Miss Dargon far, very far excels her in exquisite pathos and tenderness."

The steamer Geo. W. Elder, which sailed from here last Friday morning, arrived at San Francisco Monday forenoon. She will leave for Portland next Saturday morning with passengers and freight.

APPEAL TO THE CHARITABLE.

As the time of year is approaching when the poor in our midst should be remembered, it may be of interest to the public to know what has been done at the Home since they so liberally responded on last Thanksgiving Day to the appeal of the ladies of the "relief society." The number of children admitted during the year has been seventy-six. Out of the number, good homes have been found for fifteen, thirty-five dismissed. The present matron, Mrs. Woods, has been all that the friends of such an institution could desire. Watching over with a mother's tenderness to care the little motherless ones. Three of the little girls whose were diseased when brought there died during the year. All have been well fed and clothed, and those old enough sent to school. Dr. Bird has kindly granted his gratuitous services for the year. During this time, much work has also been done outside the Home; thirty families have been visited and assisted in various ways by these ladies, with the constant wear of another year. Many of the household articles need replenishing and encouraged by the noble response they met with last year. The ladies propose making a like appeal to the public this year. Paper bags will be distributed throughout the city, to be filled with whatever the people may feel disposed to put in them—food, clothing or money. Furniture is also needed, to the way of chairs and bedsteads; also crockery, lamps, tinware, pans, &c. All will be most acceptible, and will cause a thanksgiving to ascend that day in behalf of the suffering ones.

Secretary L. R. S.

Several new beautifiers under various names, have lately started into existence, but Dickey's "Creme de Lis" has no competition in merit. Sold by all druggists.

SCOW BAY TRAGEDY.

PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION OF CLAWSON AND DAVISON—PRISONERS COMMITTED.

Under date of Fort Townsend, Nov. 10th, our regular correspondent sends the following:

On Saturday morning the long-expected decision in the case of the Territory vs. Clawson and Davison, charged with the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Haight, was rendered by Justice Learned, before whom the investigation had been continued from day to day for about two weeks.

The argument was opened by W. M. Tirdlot, Esq., for the prosecution, followed by W. Inman, Esq., for the defense, who, in turn, was succeeded by D. M. Bradshaw, Esq., for the prisoners, who brought to every argument he could possibly muster on behalf of his clients, reviewing the entire testimony throughout, which probably occupied about two hours.

The case was then closed by acting prosecuting attorney D. W. Smith, Esq., who ably reviewed the case from beginning to end without the slightest hesitation, making his points and establishing his theories in the clearest possible manner, while thoroughly ventilating and criticizing the testimony produced before the court.

Immediately after counsel took his seat the court ordered both the prisoners to stand committed to the county jail to await the action of the grand jury.

On hearing the decision the prisoner Clawson burst into tears, and was soon afterwards escorted to jail accompanied by his supposed accessory. And thus for the present ends one of the most remarkable investigations that has probably ever taken place before a justice's court in Port Townsend, and one in which judge, counsel and officers have worked to the very best of their ability. It was quite apparent to the public that the whole object sought to be obtained on all sides was the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth," and it was generally conceded that no other decision than the foregoing could have been rendered with such an amount of evidence as was produced in this case.

The expense of the investigation will no doubt be considerable, but it would have been still more if a reward had been offered for the apprehension of the murderers, which is a thing usually done in such cases, and indeed every effort should be put forth by all county officers to see that the assassins be brought to justice and that their counterparts should not remain with such a horrible stain on its record, even if it cost thousands of dollars to do it. Evidence at such a distance from the county seat cannot be reached without expense, and this expense has to be met by some body, probably the county commissioners know who, and if not in a case like this, they should be empowered to advance all the money necessary to hunt up every bit of evidence in the case, red tapism to the contrary notwithstanding.

THE PRISONERS.

As probably your many readers are interested in the matter of this murder, it may not be considered out of place to give a brief sketch of the prisoners. Charles Clawson is a half breed, aged about 24 years, with rather a pleasant, good countenance. He owns some land at Oak Bay, and was engaged in logging at the time of his arrest. By those who know him best he is said to have always been of an even, good hearted disposition, but rather easily led or influenced. His wife and child remained in court during the investigation, and his affection, especially for the latter, was quite apparent to those who were present. The prisoner, Davison, is a Flathead Indian, aged about 18 years, with a very good looking countenance, and even if he were proven entirely innocent, from his physiognomy shows deceit, craft and cunning, all very clearly defined. It seems that he is an orphan, his father and mother having been killed some years ago on the beach near this place, and since then he has been working in different camps in this vicinity. He is unmarried, speaks good English, and is generally nicknamed "Dutchman." It is probable that before the district court meets in February, further evidence may be brought to light, and perhaps this great mystery may in some way be solved.

A Debt of Gratitude.

If ever a man owed a debt of gratitude, I do to Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. Three years ago I was with one foot in the grave and the other just ready to follow, with that dreadful disease consumption. A friend of mine recommended Hall's Balsam as the best medicine. Thank God I tried it. The first bottle I used did me more good than all the physicians in Cincinnati, and I had all the best in the city. I continued to use Hall's Balsam until I had taken six bottles, and to day I am as well as any man in the city. You can publish this if it will do any good. H. PORTER.

The above is one of many such letters that we receive. For coughs colds and consumption, there is nothing equal to Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. For sale by all druggists.

THE UMATILLA COURT.

PENDLETON, Nov. 7 1878.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A very important term of the circuit court for this county has been holding during the past two weeks, Judge L. L. McArthur presiding. A number of civil cases have been tried, and there has been an unusually large criminal docket, including several indictments for felonies. Free passes to Salem have been provided for some individuals, with tickets for board and lodging in Mr. Parish's hotel.

In the case of W. D. Brassfield, for the killing of Knoft at Umatilla Landing, the grand jury found a true bill against Brassfield for manslaughter, but the plea of self defense saved the defendant at the trial, a verdict of acquittal being returned.

Captain E. W. Baughman, who killed Patrick Whalen, a deck hand on the steamboat Spotswood, last August, was indicted for murder in the second degree, and his trial commenced yesterday and ended this afternoon in a verdict of "not guilty," the jury being out a little an hour and a half. It will be remembered that Captain Baughman was brought before Judge McArthur a few days after the man was killed and had his preliminary examination before the judge, who acted as committing magistrate; that he judge held him to bail for the crime of manslaughter in the sum of $5,000, and that for bailing to bail for manslaughter, instead of committing without bail for murder, a mob under the inspiration of bad whisky and worse passions, gathered about the judge's dwelling in the evening and insulted him with hoots and yells and tin pan music, ending up the orgies by burning an effigy of the judge; and that for some time thereafter the newspaper in Portland which enjoys unchallenged pre eminence for vileness, teemed with charges of partiality and even of corruption against the judge. The result of this trial is a complete vindication of Judge McArthur. All through the trial his rulings were certainly as strict against the defendant as any fair minded person could have asked; and, in fact, the defendant and his counsel felt that they had the prepossessions of most men decided against the rulings of the court, to overcome in order to make a successful defense. And yet, after full hearing the jury say, by their verdict, that the error of the judge at the preliminary examination, if error there was, consisted in his being too lenient to the defendant, but in his being too severe in his judgment of the case. Captain Baughman's main defense was that the killing of Whalen was accidental, and this the jury believed to be the truth.

This afternoon and evening a jury has been obtained for the trial of two of the Indians charged with murdering George Coggan last July. Nearly one hundred persons were examined on their voir dire, and before the requisite twelve were found who are not disqualified by having already formed an opinion as to the guilt of the defendants.

There are some three or four others indicted with those tried at the bar and now awaiting trial for this murder. These cases can not be completed at the present session, as the session expires by limitation on the 9th instant. It has been suggested that an adjourned session may be held some time in December to dispose of these cases.

Meanwhile a very interesting question of jurisdiction is to be raised in the Umatilla cases. The murder was committed on the Umatilla reservation, and, as is alleged, by Indians belonging to that reservation; and it is contended by counsel for the defendants that the state courts have not jurisdiction to try the perpetrators of the crime. The defendants are represented by Mr. J. H. Lasater and Mr. A. E. Isbam, of Walla Walla, and the prosecution is conducted by Mr. Luther B. Ison, district attorney, and Mr. M. Baker, of Union. This makes a strong team on each side, and the jurisdictional conundrum is likely to be probed to the bottom.

The two Indians now on trial bear the aristocratic names of Quit-i-lumps and White Owl. I am not advised what pert Quit-i-lumps is supposed to have borne in the Coggan tragedy. White Owl is said to be the man who fired the shot that brought Coggan to the ground. He is a young man, say twenty-eight or thirty years old, tall, slender, straight as an arrow, lithe as a panther, with a long face, high cheek bones, eyes like an eagle's and nose to correspond. He is of lighter complexion than most of his tribe, and his swarthy and fleshless face is one that impresses the beholder at once and prepares the mind to hear a story of cruelty and blood.

The evidence against these braves is said to be positive and conclusive. Among the witnesses is a young Indian named Kumia, indicted with five others. He has turned state's evidence, and will, it is said, tell the tale from the Indian point of view. His story is that he was with the murderers when the deed was done, and knows all the horrible details. He appears to be about twenty years of age, and is a bright and intelligent Indian. He looks happy. His countenance is irresistible proof that confession is good for the soul, especially when it saves one's neck from being broken on the gallows. Dan Kemp says the contains Kumia will, and if necessary for the health to take up his residence somewhere outside the reservation and habitat of his tribe henceforth.

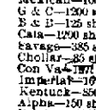
FELLOWS'

HYPOPHOSPHITES.



For several months past I have used FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES in phthisis, chronic bronchitis, and other affections of the throat. I have the pleasure to say that in nothing it ranks foremost among remedies used for these diseases. Z. S. EARLE, M. D., St. John, N. B.

I strongly recommend Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites to all who suffer in any way from diseases or weakness of the lungs, bronchial tubes, or from general debility.

J. H. W. SCOTT, M. D., Gagetown, N. B.

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites acted with expedition and entire satisfaction in a case of aphonia, which had failed to yield to regular treatment. S. JACOBS, M. D., Edinburgh, N. S.

No hesitation in recommending Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites for general debility, or any diseases of the lungs.

H. G. ADDY, M. D.

In restoring persons suffering from dyspepsia, prostration and cough, following typhoid fever, Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is the best remedy I ever used.

R. M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

Chronic and Difficult Diseases.

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS

public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female. He has also warned their against habits that would be likely to produce disease, in plain and comprehensive language. But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease mentally and physically, he has restored them to health and happiness, for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness.

has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases: Catarrh, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the throat and chest, by an entirely new system only known to himself. Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, including Spermatorrhea, Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood. In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success, not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States. Diseases of the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of, and never fails to give relief at once, and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time.

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints, and understands their delicate and settled organization, as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health.

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE over most physicians—he can tell the patients' disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual. This accounts in part for his great professional success.

All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand, and the patient need not fear the result.

DR. BRENAN

will send to those living at a distance and who cannot well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally, and will forward the proper medicines, or instruments, to any part of the country with full instructions and advice. Each letter requiring advice or list of questions, must contain two postage stamps.

Everything strictly confidential and honorable.

THE DOCTOR

has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify.

CAUTION.

Persons coming to Portland, requiring medical treatment of the proper kind, who desire to consult with me, will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so-called Doctors, through pretended friendship for the patients. Look out for them; they are knaves, prompted by selfish motives and what they can make. Be sure and ask for DR. PAUL M. BRENAN, the Medical Lecturer, and read his sign on his door.
